for involvement in the American College of Rheumatology / American Association of Hip and Knee Surgeons Guideline Project: Indications for Total Knee and/or Hip Replacement

The ACR develops clinical practice guidelines for use by physicians, health professionals, patients and other stakeholders who want to ensure high quality, evidence-based care for rheumatic disease patients. ACR guidelines include recommendations for using therapies that are available in the United States, advising on which work best in different clinical situations and patient groups. They are not meant to be prescriptive but to provide guidance based on the most recently published evidence about what helps patients the most without exposing them to unnecessary harms or risks. AAHKS is partnering with the ACR in this guideline project because of its members' subject matter expertise.

Patients play an important role in guideline development work. Involving patients allows their views and experiences to complement both the published evidence and the expertise and experience of physicians, health professionals, and others who are part of the guideline development team.

The focus of this guideline is on appropriate indications for total knee and/or hip replacement in patients with moderate to severe osteoarthritis or osteonecrosis of the hip or knee. The ACR and AAHKS are looking for patients who have these conditions AND have had either knee or hip replacement surgery, to participate in this project.

Would you like to volunteer to help develop guidelines that incorporate the values and preferences of this group of patients?

If so, here's what we would ask you to do:

- As part of the application process:
 - Submit a brief profile of yourself so that we can get to know you better
 - Verify that you are a patient with these conditions/experiences who is age 18 or older, with a signed note or email from your doctor or other medical document that indicates that your diagnosis/experience matches the patient population of this guideline
 - If requested, participate in a brief phone interview to discuss your interest in more detail
- If you are confirmed to be involved:
 - Be a member of a group of 10-12 patients who will examine summarized evidence, provide patient perspectives on what the final recommendations should be, and give input on additional questions from the guideline development team, if any
 - As part of this patient group, actively participate in a 3-4-hour online webinar meeting in April 2022, where the group will be oriented and then review the summaries of the evidence for how to most appropriately determine if a patient needs a knee or hip replacement and provide input into what the guideline recommendations should be.

What skills are required?

You will receive orientation for this role, but it would be helpful if you are enthusiastic and have good communication and teamwork skills. You also need to have time to commit to the work of the group during the timeframes listed above.

Costs/expenses

Any out-of-pocket expenses related to your participation in this meeting, e.g., childcare costs, will be reimbursed. In addition, after the project is completed, if you have actively participated (i.e., attended the webinar and responded to follow ups, if requested), you will receive $300 compensation for your participation.

What can you expect from the ACR and AAHKS?

- Appreciation and respect
- Support
- Relevant information and instruction, including explanations of how to interpret research study results and how the information you provide will be used

What training and support will you receive?

The ACR staff leader who will facilitate the meeting will also be available before and after the meeting for questions and orientation by phone and/or email, as needed.

Disclosure of relationships and confidentiality

Everyone who is involved in this project must complete and sign the following forms:

- Disclosure of relationships This form asks about your personal and non-personal interests in other organizations that might be doing work similar to this project, or commercial companies that might be, for example, involved in producing new drugs. We ask everyone who participates in guideline work to act as independently as possible. If anyone has significant personal interests that may conflict with this project, that person might not be considered to participate. This form must be completed and submitted with your application.
- Confidentiality This agreement asks you to keep all project-related materials, discussions and decisions confidential until the guideline is approved by the ACR and publicly available through publication. You would be asked to complete this form if you are confirmed to participate in the project.

How do you get involved?

You should complete the attached form, which includes a short personal statement detailing your reasons for wishing to participate as a patient representative in this project. Please highlight any relevant skills and experience. Please email the form, plus the other items listed at the bottom of the form, to Regina Parker at rparker@rheumatology.org, no later than February 28, 2022.

When will applications be considered, and when will decisions be made?

All complete applications will be immediately considered, and final decisions will be made fairly quickly. All applicants will be notified of their status by email on or by March 7, 2022.

Who may I contact with questions about the application process or this project?

Please email ACR staff Regina Parker at rparker@rheumatology.org or call her at 404-633-3777, ext. 822. Alternatively, you may also email ACR staff Amy Turner at aturner@rheumatology.org or call her at 404-633-3777, ext. 813.

APPLICATION FORM

Please complete this form to apply to be an ACR/AAHKS Total Joint Arthroplasty guideline patient representative. If you have any questions or concerns about the form, please call ACR staff Regina Parker at 404-633-3777, ext. 822, or email her at rparker@rheumatology.org.
